Martin Marietta names controller

NEW ORLEANS, La.—Martin Marietta Manned Space Systems has named Gibson P. Van Alstyne as controller, responsible for accounting, cost management, financial services and financial information systems.

Van Alstyne had previously been manager of financial services for the company. He joined Martin Marietta Corporation in 1969 in Denver, Colo., as a finance administrator in manpower and business planning. He moved to New Orleans in 1973 as chief of financial analysis and in 1979 was named manager of financial services.

Van Alstyne holds bachelor's and master's degrees in business from Montana State University and University of Denver, respectively.

He served as the Martin Marietta representative on the governor of Louisiana's Cost Control Commission in 1981 and on the Governor's Committee of 100 in 1985.

Martin Marietta Manned Space Systems is an operating company of Martin Marietta Corporation. It operates the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Michoud Assembly Facility here

SLIPLINING PROJECT—Randy Green, an employee of Williams Steveson, constructs a roller mechanism to guide a cable through the Carroll Avenue sewer line currently being lined. Steveson is working for the city of Bay St. Louis on the sliplining project which is expected to cost $35,000.

Bay council considers raising speed limit on Beach Boulevard

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK

The Bay St. Louis City Council took under advisement a recommendation to change the speed limit on Beach Boulevard to 30 miles per hour Tuesday in a regular meeting.

A change in the speed limit from 25 miles per hour in the Bay St. Louis and a change from 35 miles per hour in Waveland would end some confusion and establish a uniform speed limit for the length of Beach Boulevard, Mayor Victor J. Frankiewicz Jr. told the council.

Because there is no recognizable landmark on Beach Boulevard at the Bay St. Louis-Waveland line some people have difficulty realizing when they enter the different speed limit area, he said.

Frankiewicz also said he had talked with Waveland Mayor John Longo who was not opposed to requesting the Waveland speed limit be lowered to give a uniform speed limit on Beach Boulevard.

Ward One Councilman Lisa Coward said North Beach Boulevard is a different situation from South Beach Boulevard and she opposes increasing the speed limit in the Cedar Point area.

"There is no beach on North Beach Boulevard like in other areas and children are always down on the seawall right at the road," she added.

Protests were also heard from two area residents and the council voted to take the matter under advisement.

At the meeting, City Clerk Edward Favre presented to the council a Property Tax Insolvency report by Hancock County Tax Assessor and Collector Edward Murtagh, who also collects Bay St. Louis city taxes.

Favre told the council Murtagh had reported plans to pursue in court delinquent taxes on business personal property, including equipment and inventory.

"The delinquent amount of $5,301 is only about four percent of the total personal property tax levy and this is a tremendous increase over the past years," Favre said.

In other business at the meeting, Frankiewicz requested the council delay sending payments to the Waveland Regional Wastewater Authority.

He reported a discussion is continuing on the refund amount of $54,000 due the city from the wastewater district.

"They are apparently having some cash flow problems at this time and would like to give the city a credit for that amount instead of a refund," Frankiewicz added.

According to Frankiewicz, a credit for this amount would stretch it out several months but he would rather have the refund so Bay St. Louis utility customers could benefit.

"This refund could be realized as a credit to Bay St. Louis utility customers accounts in an average of $15-$20 per customer," he added.

The council approved the delay of the checks.

The city council also commended the Bay St. Louis Police Department for their work in a four-month investigation that led to several arrests of persons who are charged with sale of a controlled substance.

Frankiewicz added a special commendation to Chief Detective David Murtagh who "spent many hours gathering the evidence and documenting it."

In Frankiewicz's report on current city projects, he said floor plan changes are being made to make easier access to the Valena C. Jones gymnasium.

He also reported Alcan Cable Company had donated $1,000 to help with repairs in the gymnasium.

The city council also set Nov. 3 to hold a public hearing to determine if several parcels of property should be declared a threat to public welfare.

These parcels of property and their owners include: Bay Oaks Drive, George Roth; 500 Block of Main Street, Harry Swayne; 400 block of Easterbrook, Josephine Fulton; 500 Block of Sycamore, Estate of William Smith, Corner of Washington and Old Spanish Trail, Darrell Choina; 500 block of Washington Street, Estate of Julia Perry; 500 block of Sycamore, Muriel Williams; and St. Francis Street, Tom Dell.

If these parcels are declared a threat to public welfare, the city will have them cleaned and add the charges to property taxes.

NSTL employees plan CAC rally

Employees at the National Space Technology Laboratories will hold a rally Oct. 8 to mark their 1988 Combined Agencies Campaign which began late last month with the announcement of a record-setting goal of $131,061.

The event will begin at 9 a.m. in the Visitors Center auditorium.

Nationally-known jazz pianist Ronnie Kole will be guest speaker and he will also perform during the rally. Kole played the piano during Pope John Paul II's outdoor Mass in New Orleans last month.

Jerry Hlass, NSTL director and chairman of the CAC drive, will give remarks and the NSTL Concert Choir will perform as part of the program.

The goal of the annual campaign reflects the combined contributions of NSTL's federal and industrial employees. The government portion of the overall goal is $68,061 and the industrial goal is $63,000.

The combined contributions from NSTL employees aid United Way organizations in the local communities, including those in Mississippi's Hancock, Harrison, Jackson and Pearl River counties and St. Tammany Parish in Louisiana.

Other organizations which benefit from NSTL contributions are the National Health Agencies and the International Service agencies.

Employees can designate which area and agency they wish to receive their donations.

Assisting Hlass with this year's campaign are NASA's Harry Guin, Combined Federal Campaign vice chairman, and Sverdrup's Bud Barnes, vice chairman for the industrial campaign.

Supervisors agree to raise county employee salaries

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has given final approval for pay raises included in the 1987-88 county budget.

The board voted unanimously to approve the raises Monday, but the new pay scale is retroactive to Oct. 1.

In order to create more differentiation between the pay of a foreman and workers who do not supervise other personnel, the board raised the pay for that job classification from $12,120 annually to $13,500.

According to Hancock County

Comptroller Ken Walker, the job of the ranger at McLeod Water Park has been reclassified and the salary has increased from $10,200 to $13,500.

The salaries for two individual county positions, including Youth Court judge and board of supervisors attorney, have been increased to $20,000 per year. The judge's salary was formerly $12,000 and the attorney's pay was $17,000, Walker said.

The remainder of the county employees are receiving a $600 per year raise.

Walker said the raises do not apply to the sheriff's department, although an additional $600 per person was budgeted.

State law gives the sheriff the authority to set the salaries of his personnel rather than have them set by the board.

In addition, the salary raises do not apply to those employees considered personal employees of fee-paid public officials rather than employees of the county, the comptroller added.

The fee-paid officials have the authority to set their own employees' salaries, although the county must pay a minimum share of those salaries as mandated by state law.

The supervisors had discussed setting up specific, written job classifications and assigning salaries based on the duties involved in each one at a work session last month.

The board has assigned Beat Two Supervisor Ronald Cuevas, Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner and Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro to work on that project.

In addition, County Maintenance Superintendent Bill Johnson has been asked to prepare job descriptions for the employees in his department.

The board members had discussed delaying any action on raises until the job classifications and salary scales were prepared, but had decided to go ahead with the raises included in the budget.

The budget had already been set and published at the time the board met for the work session.

Supervisors discuss giving up on old hospital sale

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has discussed giving up trying to sell the old Hancock General Hospital Building, but has not yet taken official action on the question.

The supervisors have been trying to sell the structure, located on Dunbar Avenue, since shortly after it was vacated when the hospital staff moved into Hancock Medical Center off Drinkwater Road.

A first attempt yielded no bids and the current prospect responded to a second advertisement.

The prospect is a Louisiana corporation interested in building a personal care facility, which was still trying to get a certificate of need from the State of Mississippi when the board was last contacted by the firm's legal representative, according to Board Attorney Gerald Gex. Gex has written two letters to the firm which have not been answered. His most recent attempt to contact the potential buyers was with authorization received from the board at its Sept. 15 meeting. "I would assume at this point the situation is dead," Gex stated.

Beat Three Supervisor Roger Dale Ladner asked that the board give the firm another week before making a decision to stop trying to sell the building.

Board President and Beat Five Supervisor James Travirca objected to Ladner's request but did not call for a vote on the additional time, thereby granting an extension to Oct. 15, the date of the board's next meeting.

Travirca, a former contractor who had been appointed by the rest of the board to oversee the maintenance of the building after it was vacated, said he feels the best move would be to stop trying to sell the building.

He said the estimate on repair of the roof, which became an issue when the board originally tried to decide what to do with the old hospital facility, is about $65,000.

In addition, he said "minimal" work is needed on air conditioning and heating and some other cosmetic improvements might be made.

"You might have to knock out a wall or two, depending on what you want to put in there," Travirca said. What Travirca wants to put in the old building includes county offices currently without suitable quarters. The Hancock County Welfare Department was the only agency that Travirca mentioned specifically.

The welfare department is currently housed in an old creamery building on Necaise Avenue and has been the subject of several Grand Jury recommendations, all of which stated that the agency should have new quarters and that the old ones should be renovated if new ones could not be obtained.

At least one of the reports also recommended that the old hospital be used to house county offices.

Travirca said finding someone to fill the rest of the facility, if there is room left over from county offices, could be solved by offering remaining space to Bay St. Louis and Waveland.

"All three entities could use it," he said.

Also on Monday, the board heard an unrelated complaint regarding

St. Clare founding principal achieves national distinction

By EDGAR H. PEREZ

A Dominican nun who was founding principal of St. Clare School in Waveland today will be honored in Washington, D.C. as a 1987 National Distinguished Principal.

Sister Ruth Angelette, OP, who was primarily responsible for the opening of a new school when St. Clare's was destroyed by Hurricane Camille in 1969, served as principle at the Waveland Catholic elementary from its founding in 1964 until 1972 when she was named "Outstanding Young Educator" in Mississippi.

Since 1972 she has been serving as principal of St. Anthony of Padua School in the 4800 block of Canal Street in New Orleans, La.

Sister Ruth is one of three educators chosen this year for the National Distinguished Principals Award from the Catholic schools of the United States.

The three were selected for the honor from among some 8,000 nominees by the National Catholic Education Association.

The United States Department of Education and the National Association of Elementary School Principals are jointly sponsoring the awards program today and Friday.

Secretary of Education William T. Bennett met the outstanding principals at a reception in Washington Wednesday.

The National Distinguished Principals Award winners include one additional representative from the non-parochial sector of American private schools and representatives from the public schools in each of the 50 states and the District of Columbia as well as the overseas schools of the U.S. Departments of Defense and State.

Also this year, Sister Ruth was named Principal of the Month for February by Today's Catholic Teacher magazine and commended in a Legislative resolution by the Louisiana House of Representatives.

"Sister Ruth is a unique woman whose personal courage and determination affected the entire community of Waveland Mississippi after Hurricane Camille when she administered the emergency shelter for the town and undertook the opening of a new school after St. Clare's Elementary School, of which she was the founding principal, was destroyed," the House Commendation states.

"Sister Ruth is currently the principal of an inner city elementary school...in a mixed neighborhood of Hispanics, Whites and Blacks where she has established several programs responsive to the needs of the students and their families."

Speaking Oracles

By W. Edwin Kearley

Paul was one who persevered to the end. He said, "Brethren, I count not myself to have apprehended; but this one thing I do, forgetting those things which are behind, and reaching forth unto those things which are before, I press toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." (Philippians 3:13-14)

Three facts should be recognized from Paul's statement. (1) Paul had not reached the height of his spiritual ambition. (2) He realized that he had to forget the past. (3) He was doing his best to reach his life-long goal.

Having spiritual ambition and reaching it is the most important contemplation of man. Paul was always zealous and true to his conscience. His zeal caused him to seek to exterminate Christianity by exterminating Christian.

Before Agrippa Paul said, "I verily thought with myself that I ought to do many things contrary to the name of Jesus of Nazareth, which thing I also did in Jerusalem: and many of the saints did I shut up in prison, having received authority from the chief priests; and when they were put to death, I gave my voice against them." (Acts 26:9-10)

When he learned better he was as zealous for that which he had tried to destroy. While preaching the gospel of Christ, he was beaten, frequently placed in prison, stoned, shipwrecked, in perils of robbers, in weariness and painfulness, in hunger and thirst, in cold and nakedness and care of all the churches. (II Corinthians 11:23-28)

In Acts 23-1, Paul declared to the council, "...Men and brethren, I have lived in all good conscience before God until this day." (Acts 23:1). When he learned better, he changed his practice.

Too often today many in the church may be spurred into action one time and then return to the old rut. This see-saw action never achieves progress. It is motivated

This Friday begins the second half in local high school action.

The local teams are led by Hancock North Central with a 4-0 record; Bay Senior High 4-1; St. Stanislaus 3-2; and Pass Christian 0-5.

The Tigers, Hawks and Rock-A-Chaws all three will be playing away this week with the Pirates trying to break into the win column at home entertaining East Central.

The high-flying Hawks of Hancock North Central will journey to North Biloxi to play St. Martin's Yellow Jackets.

In all probability, veteran head coach Irvin Farve and his coaching staff have molded one of the finest teams ever and should continue their winning ways.

The 1987 Hawks are stingy on defense and have an explosive running and passing offense.

The Tigers of Bay High have rolled to four straight victories and will travel to Long Beach Bearcat territory.

The Bearcats can be tough at home and are hungry for a victory over the Tigers. Tiger head mentor Cleveland Williams will have to have his squad in top form against Long Beach.

St. Stanislaus should spring back after losing to undefeated Hancock North Central last week and will travel to Poplarville Friday.

Poplarville could catch the Rocks if they are not careful, and head coach Ken Lyons should have Stanislaus ready to get back into the win column with a few breaks.

Get out and support you local high school football team; they need you in the stands.
See you at the game.

We have mentioned several times about the number of vehicles traveling on our roadways and highways with only one headlight.

In doing some highway travel last Friday we noted a number of one-headlight vehicles on dangerous Highway 603 as well as on several other roadways.

This is a dangerous way to travel because it is hard for oncoming motorists to figure which side of a road an approaching vehicle is on.

We know our State Troopers have been issuing citations for vehicles with improper equipment and a citation could cost a motorist much more than having a headlight replaced.

In case you are an early riser, do not forget the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce's Morning Edition this morning at 7:30 at the Bay-Waveland Yacht Club.

This morning Edition is sponsored by Mississippi Power Company with Jerry McDonald, executive director of the Mississippi Economic Development the guest speaker.

This should be an interesting meeting and it is hoped there will be a large group in attendance.

Don't forget the OLA Food Festival Saturday and Sunday beginning at noon each day.

In addition to good food there will also be live entertainment during the festival.

The OLA Festival will be at the intersection of US-90 and Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis.

Foreign investment pursued

Mississippi is beefing up its efforts to attract foreign investment dollars with the establishment of three foreign trade offices.

The Department of Economic Development has announced plans to open offices in Taiwan, Korea, and Belgium. Last week, representatives from seven Taiwanese chemical companies visited the state to explore investment possibilities, technology sharing, and equipment purchases.

The state's efforts to increase its economic base can be greatly enhanced by foreign investment.

Mississippi has an opportunity now to capitalize on the new interest being shown by outsiders in the state.

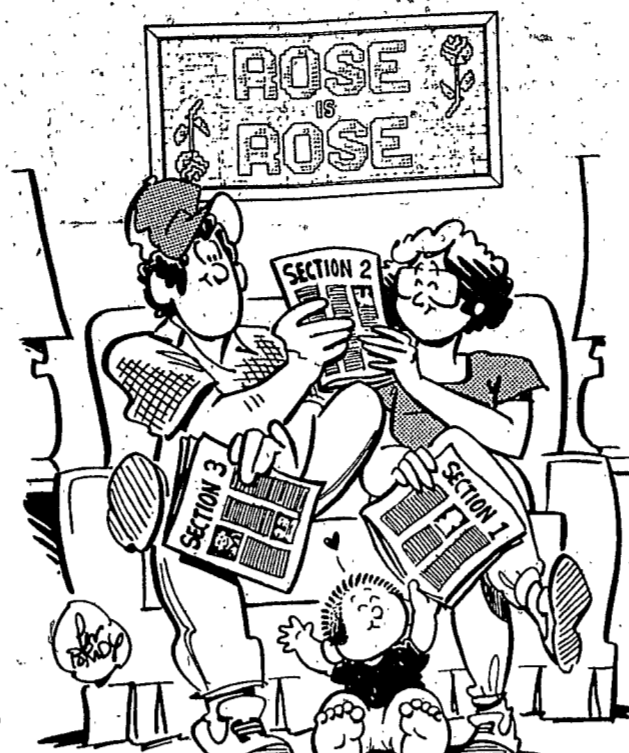

As other states throughout the nation look at Mississippi with increased interest in the technology developments under way, so will other countries.

The state's advancements in technology development and research can go a long way in boosting Mississippi's image and attractiveness as a location for business and industry.

Now is the time for state economic developers to aggressively pursue investment dollars, whether they be from companies in the state, in other states, or outside the country. Mississippi must seize the opportunity to market itself as the place to do business.

Longfellow Road in 'killer' condition

Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Re: Car killer, and maybe people killer, on Longfellow Street northeast of Fairgrounds and before Chapman Street, District 5.

On Monday, Oct. 5 around 4:30 p.m. on my way home from work, I took Longfellow Street and had the front end of my car severely damaged just past the fairgrounds.

The suspension broke and I had to fight to keep on the road and out of the ditch.

If another car had been in the opposite lane, it might have been a killer.

The hole across the road was large enough to break my suspension and put me in the ditch.

It's not a new hole—it's been a car killer for several weeks.

So far only cars have been involved. Will it take a death to get the road fixed instead of shells that don't last an hour?

My thanks to the people who notified the wrecker service and Sheriff's Department for me. Also, compliments to Sam Perniciaro's wrecker driver and Deputy Sam Necaise III and his partner for their professional service.

Car can be a lethal weapon

Re: Road Courtesy

Dear Sir,

'He acts like he owns the road!'

We have all used this expression at one time or another.

Through use of our tax dollar, my friends, we all own the road.

Cyclists use the road as there are no designated bike trails.

Children use the roads as there are few sidewalks.

Walkers and runners use the road as there is no track with public access.

My husband is a runner, and once a week, he comes in telling me he was run off the road by a motorist.

A friend of his was run over by a car.

The nightmare of anyone who uses the road, be it a child or adult, is to be hit by a car.

Please use common courtesy when using the roads and remember a car can be a lethal weapon.

Especially with school in session, let us remember we are all neighbors and share the road with more respect.

Sincerely,

Kathryn Norton

National Employ The Handicapped Week

Oct. 4-10 has been declared "National Employ The Handicapped" week. In observance of this, your Mississippi State Employment Service urges all employers to make a special effort to examine existing and potential job openings with the aim of filling them with handicapped workers.

For assistance in matching people to jobs contact the nearest office of your Mississippi State Employment Service. In Gulfport call 864-1711. In Bay St. Louis you can get help at 467-9572. The number in Biloxi is 374-4511.

Forget about "dis" and consider the ability when analyzing job requirements. Very few jobs cannot be adequately performed by a worker with less than 100 percent physical capacity. By the same token, very few workers are 100 percent disabled. It's just a matter of matching ability to requirement. It's good business!

For assistance in matching people to jobs contact the nearest office of your Mississippi State Employment Service. In Gulfport call 864-1711. In Bay St. Louis you can get help at 467-9572. The number in Biloxi is 374-4511.

Most of the major national wonders in America have been preserved in the National Park System, allowing people to come and see what it is that sets America and Mississippi apart.

But, of the 51 national parks representing virtually every facet of America's natural, historical and cultural legacy, there is nothing to reflect one of its greatest legacies of all. It is time for a Mississippi River National Park.

We have fond memories of Mark Twain's description of the Mississippi River in The Adventures of Huckleberry Finn. But the question is, will we be able to preserve the scenic and historic beauty of the Great Mississippi.

More than any other river, the Mississippi is "America's River." Creating a national park along its shores would be giving it due recognition as one of America's "crown jewels," as well.

On Sept. 22 I joined with several of my colleagues who are fortunate enough to represent the communities along the Mississippi River in Illinois and Missouri in taking the first step in preserving America's greatest river.

We have introduced legislation, H.R. 3322, which directs the Secretary of the Interior, in coordination with other interested state and private agencies, to study the shorelines on both sides of the river. Based on that study, he would then recommend areas of natural, scenic or historic value to become part of the Mississippi River National Park.

I am very enthusiastic about this legislation and its potential for protecting and sharing the beauty and traditions of the mighty Mississippi.

Eyes on Mississippi

By Bill Minor

JACKSON—The breaks have just not gone the Republican Party's way lately.

First their euphoria over electing a governor and an attorney general, their two strongest candidates in November, was considerably deflated when their Democratic foes charged out of the August primaries with astonishing momentum.

Now the news is out that the Republicans are having trouble in what they have always done best—raising money.

Last week, state GOP Chairman Ebbie Spivey confirmed that both the party's executive director, Steve Dickson, and its political director, Steve Moon, were being let go because of the party's financial problems.

It is a fact that the national party has been having its own problems financially of late and has had to lay off people and cut back on spending.

The budget crunch at the national GOP level has resulted in cuts in what the state party usually gets from the Republican National Committee in terms of support funds, services and in-kind help.

Spivey has estimated that some $350,000 less is coming down to Mississippi this year from the national party.

One Mississippi Republican leader said a major factor in the slackening of funds being raised for the national party was the disappointment over losing the GOP majority in the Senate last year after many Republicans gave heavily to hold it.

He added that the slowdown in GOP fund-raising nationally also involves "some disenchantment" with President Reagan's foreign policy blunders.

But the firings at the state GOP headquarters, some party insiders said, were not altogether the result of financial troubles the Mississippi GOP is having.

They blamed the firing of Dickson, who had been lured by the GOP to come back to the state last year from a legislative lobbying job in Alabama, on "management problems" in the way state headquarters was being run.

"Dickson, it was learned, had already been notified his job would terminate after the November elections, but the sudden firing last week came as a surprise to him. It left the GOP with a problem of damage control right at the peak of the general election campaign.

Meantime, GOP gubernatorial candidate Jack Reed, who had been heavily recruited by Spivey and several other top party leaders to run on the GOP ticket, was apparently feeling some of the fallout from the Republican money crunch.

Spivey said Reed had been promised $350,000 from the national party in his bid to become the first Republican governor this century, but thus far, only $150,000 has been forthcoming.

Some Democrats were interpreting the lack of national help for Reed as an indication that GOP strategists in Washington have given up on their chances of winning the governorship in Mississippi this year.

Reed, however, is evidently drawing enough campaign money on his own from Mississippi to stay competitive with his Democratic foe, state Auditor Ray Mabus, who also had wound up the Democratic runoff with money problems.

"We're going to match him (Mabus) dollar for dollar on TV the rest of the campaign," a Reed campaign spokesman said last week. Mabus, however, had gotten a one-week jump on Reed by getting on the tube last week in September.

Mabus set a goal of raising $840,000 for the general election campaign, of which $500,000 was to be invested in TV commercials. That would put him somewhere around $2 million for both the primary and general election campaigns.

Last week, Mabus apparently did well in raising money in two fund raisers in Washington and another in New York. A daytime Washington gathering put together by Walter Thompson, Clarksdale attorney who is a member of the National Democratic Finance Council, is known to have brought in $45,000 for Mabus.

Meanwhile, Reed people last week said they have raised about $1.2 million thus far in both the primary and general election campaign of a $1.6 million goal.

In Congress

AMERICA'S RIVER

We in Mississippi are blessed with some of the most scenic, pristine waterways in the country, and we have established a commendable record for protecting these areas for the generations who will follow us.

We've shown it is possible to strike a balance between positive growth and development and the need to preserve our natural resources. I was pleased to successfully push legislation through the 99th Congress which preserves a 21-mile segment of the Black Creek in Forrest County.

Most of the major national wonders in America have been preserved in the National Park System, allowing people to come and see what it is that sets America and Mississippi apart.

But, of the 51 national parks representing virtually every facet of America's natural, historical and cultural legacy, there is nothing to reflect one of its greatest legacies of all. It is time for a Mississippi River National Park.

Congressman addresses Friendship Oak DAR chapter

The billboard at the Ramada Inn of Long Beach on Saturday, Oct. 3 announced a "Welcome to United States Congressman Trent Lott and guests of the Friendship Oak Chapter NS DAR."

Congressman Lott, scheduled to speak on National Defense was introduced by Mrs. Robert C. Willemis of Long Beach who chairs the chapter's program committee. Natally attired in trim of figure, Congressman Lott wore grey trousers and a well-tailored navy-blue jacket.

Apparently he needed no introduction for he circled the luncheon tables shaking hands with and calling the names of those in attendance.

A salute to the autumn season was carried out with nosegays of colorful ornamental peppers, dried arrangements of hydrangea and tinted yarrow and small bunches of grapes in a garland extending the length of the tables. Similar arrangements decorated the speaker's table and the reception desk.

Congressman Lott's message given in low key conversational tones stressed the importance of our country maintaining a strong military force. He reminded those in attendance of the instability of conditions in Central America as well as the Persian Gulf and Panama.

"These areas," he said, "are vital links in world transportation and a strong national defense is required—a show of strength sufficient to meet any potential challenge."

A lesson could be learned from a study of history, Lott said and added, "The strength of America is in the fiber of our society." He spoke of the beauty of our national buildings in Washington and expressed the wish that all American citizens might at some time during their lifetime visit it.

He described the popularity of Hancock County's Gumbo Festival, touched on problems with Social Security and said: "Social Security was never intended to be sufficient for full retirement support, but rather an aid that retirees might continue an acceptable life style."

Of the news media—both newspapers and news magazines Lott said many articles were slanted, biased and influenced by the support of advertisers. He urged the group to verbally and in writing protest any reports they felt to be biased or false.

The congressman was high in praise of the beauty and advantages of the Mississippi Gulf Coast and allowed 20 minutes for questions from those who wished to address problems.

Hostesses for the luncheon were Mrs. Philip Davenport who also served as registrar, and Mrs. Joe Williams Pilet, both of Bay St. Louis. At the speaker's table were Mrs.

James R. Thomas, regent; Mrs. Hazel Erhard, recording secretary, and Mrs. Pilet, corresponding secretary and publicist.

Guests included Doris Seizeneau, Smitty Marshall, both of Bay St. Louis; Jim Brumfield and Bill Gemmell both of Diamondhead; Mr. and Mrs. K. W. Irby, Wanda Keso and Gary Ruff of Long Beach.

The next meeting of the Friendship Oak Chapter is scheduled for Nov. 14 at 11:30 a.m. at the Ramada Inn of Long Beach. Mmes. Larry Lisenbee and Ruth Holley are to serve as hostesses.

County to provide $10,000 to fill community action job

BY DENA BISNETTE

The Hancock County Board of Supervisors has agreed to help Gulf Coast Community Action Agency provide a full-time coordinator for Hancock County.

Geraldine Lang, a past president of the Gulf Coast Community Action Agency and a Hancock County resident, and Agency Director Doyle Moffett appeared before the board Monday to ask for financial help.

Lang had previously appeared before the board of supervisors several times to keep them advised of the lack of a full-time coordinator as well as past budget cuts.

Gulf Coast Community Action Agency has operated in Hancock County for nine years and provides various types of assistance to low-income residents including home weatherization, Moffett said.

He explained that projects in Hancock County are presently overseen by a person based in Harrison County who comes over to the Bay St. Louis office "a couple times a week."

The agency had a full-time coordinator, Lucy Hazeur, stationed in Hancock County until about two years ago, when federal funding cuts caused the position to be eliminated.

The agency operates on federal monies administered through the Community Services Block Grant program in Jackson, which bases its allocations on the low-income population of the area to be served.

Moffett explained that the agency had originally hoped to be able to restore the full-time coordinator position through a Community Services Block Grant, but the federal funds could not be obtained.

Hancock County presently receives about $45,000 to $44,000 in federal funds for the agency, he added.

Moffett and Lang told the board that they feel it is necessary to again provide a full-time coordinator because the quality of services in Hancock County has deteriorated to some degree.

Cost of a full-time coordinator and support for the position is $18,000. Chancery Clerk Michael Nechase explained that the board has already set its budget for the fiscal year, which started Oct. 1.

However, Moffett said the agency could provide about $8,000, and the supervisors agreed to provide the remaining $10,000.

In addition, Moffett told the board the person hired for the position would be a Hancock County resident, although he did not state who that person would be.

The supervisors do not have any part in hiring the coordinator but will be notified as a matter of record when an applicant has been selected.

During the last fiscal year, Gulf Coast Community Action Agency has provided, through $53,237 in Community Services Block Grant Funds, four types of assistance to 1,983 people, including employment, housing, health services and emergency services.

The low income energy assistance program operated by the agency served 772 people with $93,050 in funds during the past year.

The home weatherization program, designed to improve the energy efficiency of a client's home, used $17,785 in funds to weatherize 17 homes, more than 80 percent of which belonged to senior citizens.

Gulf Coast Community Action Agency also provides educational services. In conjunction with the Job Training Protection Act, GED training, certification and testing is provided to eligible adults and youths, in addition to limited secretarial training and job placement.

In conjunction with Volunteers in Service to America, the agency provides a tutoring program in basic subjects to children in grades one through six, in addition to providing training to local volunteers who serve as tutors. The program is coordinated with Chapter I remedial classes in local schools.

Fried, broiled or even blackened, Cajun cooking style, that traditional Southern specialty, the catfish, is widely enjoyed all around our nation—thanks in large part to the catfish farmers in Mississippi.

And, now, according to recent news reports, Mississippi's catfish farmers—whose ponds already produce 80 percent of the world's farm-raised catfish—are setting their sights on even higher goals and more distant markets!

The Catfish Farmers of America, according to director George Williams, plan to make the catfish a star at upcoming food fairs in West Germany, Japan, Sweden, Singapore and Hong Kong.

Most prospective customers in foreign countries have no idea what a catfish is or looks like or tastes like, according to Williams—but the catfish farmers are out to show them—and inroads have already been made in fish-loving countries such as Japan—which currently imports up to 75,000 pounds of catfish a month.

And, Williams adds, farm raising offers an added marketing advantage—the supply is controllable on a year-round basis.

Catfish has been a favorite fish to me as far back as I remember—I recall how Mary, the family cook in the days of the Depression, used to substitute the river catfish her husband caught for the trout which my father thought he was eating at our table at times, in deference to the family budget—and it was delicious!

Gail Thames, who's quite a gourmet cook, has a tangy way of cooking catfish fillets. Here's:

GAIL'S PECAN CATFISH
4 farm-raised catfish fillets
1 cup ground pecans
2 Tbsp. Milk
3 Tbsp. Dijon mustard
In a small bowl, combine milk and mustard. Dip fillets into mustard mixture, then into ground pecans, shaking off the excess. Place on greased baking sheet, and oven-fry at 500 degrees for 10-12 minutes or until the catfish flakes easily. (Four servings.)

For a variation on the pecan theme:

1½ lbs. catfish fillets
Flour for dredging
2½ Tbsp. butter
1 cup pecans
1½ Tbsp. Worcestershire sauce
Preheat oven to 200 degrees. Dredge the fillets in the flour, shaking off the excess. Melt the butter in a large skillet over medium-high heat, and saute the fillets in the butter until golden on both sides, then transfer to a heated platter and keep warm in the oven.

Add the pecans to the pan and brown very lightly, for just a minute. Add the Worcestershire sauce to the pan, put the catfish on plates and top with the pecan mixture. (Four servings.)

You may want to add more butter and splashes of lemon juice. I do—ing mothers, a social services program which provides counseling to students in need, a prekindergarten program, a drug education program, a remedial services and gifted program for special educational needs, a music program, and an English as a second language program for the Hispanic youngsters..." the Legislature added.

The commendation states further, "Sister Ruth is an excellent administrator who is dedicated to the service of her students and teachers through such efforts as the updating of curriculum and materials, the offering of frequent faculty in-services provided by the school, and the provision of incentives toward continual educational opportunities for teachers..."

Student achievement at St. Anthony's, as measured on standardized tests, has risen 20 percent over the period of nine years from 1979 to 1987 when programs were introduced at the school to help meet the needs of the changing student population.

Rather than limiting her understanding of the individual student and of the larger student body, Sister Ruth approaches the needs of the whole child and has established programs which have helped the students handle such personal issues as self-esteem, family discord, peer pressure, learning disabilities and personal responsibilities, the Commendation stated.

Howard Jenkins, superintendent of the Archdiocese of New Orleans Department of Education, told Sister Ruth in a letter informing her of the national honors, "The year 1987 has been an especially blessed one for you. You are most deserving. God bless you in all your endeavors."

Ms. Caroline Auguzin of Waveland, who served as Sister Ruth's secretary at St. Clare's, noted the principal helped set the school up in tents and trailers after it was destroyed by Hurricane Camille.

"My years spent on the Gulf Coast are very special to me and I feel that this honor is shared by the wonderful people with whom I worked during that time," Sister Ruth told The Sea Coast Echo this week before her departure for Washington.

the new hospital building off Drinkwater Road.

Buddy Klein appeared before the supervisors to complain about the appearance of the Hancock Medical Center grounds.

He stated that he had visited the hospital on three recent occasions and complained that the grounds were not being kept up properly.

He said the grass needed mowing and several of the plants placed on the grounds when the property was landscaped had since died.

He said he had contacted the Sheriff's Department about supplying trusty prisoners to do the work and had discussed it with a hospital official as well.

When he checked with the sheriff after a second visit to Hancock Medical Center, Klein said he was told that the hospital had never contacted the sheriff's office to arrange a time for the trustys to work on the hospital grounds.

Beat Four Supervisor Sam Perniciaro, who had overseen the county's share of the work on the hospital grounds, said the seaway crew had last mowed the site more than a month ago, shortly before the grounds were turned over to Hancock Medical Center for upkeep.

The board also discussed some continuing drainage problems at Hancock Medical Center with its road engineer, Larry Seal, who said much of the problem could be corrected by adding fill to a median that holds water.

The supervisors agreed to draft a letter to the Hospital board regarding both matters.

In other business Monday, the board:

—Approved payment of a repair claim for a private vehicle that had been hit by a county tractor;

—Agreed to donate 15 signs to a Neighborhood Watch group in Lakeshore and Ansley;

—Took bids on a boat and two cars for the sheriff's department;

—Took under advisement a liability policy offered to the board for the county's law enforcement officers;

—Agreed to set up a meeting with Mobile Medic officials regarding discounts or free ambulance service for Medicaid patients;

—Commended William M. Frisbie, who has resigned after five years as public defender to take a post in Washington County, for his service to the county;

—Approved a meeting with South Central Bell telephone officials, Hancock County Civil Defense Director Robert Boudin and Tax Collector and Assessor Edward Murtagh regarding E-911 emergency service for the county;

—Approved a $150,000 bond resolution for improvements at the Hancock County Fairgrounds;

—Approved Travirca's resignation from the Board of Directors of South Mississippi Planning and Development District and agreed to replace him with Ladner; and —Went on record opposing the Hancock County School District's proposed site for a new school adjacent to the Hancock County Vocational-Technical Center and Stennis Airport.

The board meets again at 9 a.m. Oct. 15 in the upstairs boardroom of the Hancock County Courthouse.

Big Bird coming to Coast

Despite some clever clock tampering in an attempt to spoil Big Bird's debut as a big time Hollywood director, time marches on to set a happy tempo for "Big Bird Goes Hollywood," an all-new Sesame Street Live stage production Tuesday and Wednesday, Oct. 27-28 for three performances at the Mississippi Coast Coliseum.

The fun begins when genial quizmaster Guy Smiley wins a Hollywood movie studio, with a stipulation that he complete a film in an hour's time. Big Bird, Cookie Monster, Bert, Ernie, Grover, The Count, Prairie Dawn and Barkley the Dog volunteer to help Smiley beat the clock and retain his movieland real estate.

With Big Bird as director, the Sesame Street Muppets sing and dance their way through a variety of big screen scenes and production numbers—an outer space fantasy, "Grover in the Jungle," a monster re-creation ala Frankenstein and a colorful conga finale. At the same time, Sesame Street Live newcomers Izzie Great and Wuzzy Wonderful, do their best—or worst—to sabotage the effort and regain the studio they lost to Smiley.

Written by David Connell, executive producer of Children's Television Workshop, and Jim Thurman, the Muppets are brought to life by 18 multi-talented young performers.

"Big Bird Goes Hollywood" is produced by Bob Shipstad and presented by VEE Corporation in cooperation with Children's Television Workshop. Director and choreographer is Diane Arnold with scenic design and special effects by Jim Waters, art director and technical coordinator for the show.

The musical score includes original music by Paul Walberg as well as a group of familiar "Sesame Street" tunes: "We Are All Monsters," "So Nice To Be Here With You," "Wonderful Me" and "My Furry Little Shadow."

Reserved seat tickets are $8.50 and $7 plus computer convenience charge and available at the Coliseum Box Office and all Ticketmaster outlets. For information on group sales and discounts contact the coliseum by calling (601) 388-8010.

Coastweeks '87 observance continues through Oct. 12

BY DENA BISNETTE
Coastweeks '87 continues through Oct. 12.

The designation of Sept. 19 through Oct. 12 as Coastweeks '87 is designed to increase public awareness of the importance of protecting beaches and water resources.

The event has been nationally recognized by the U.S. Departments of Interior and Commerce, according to a resolution provided to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors by Bureau of Marine Resources biologist Dianne Hunt.

The resolution, approved by the boards of supervisors in Harrison and Jackson counties as well as Hancock County, calls Coastweeks '87 "a special time to promote an appreciation of the beauty and importance of our coastal environments and resources as well as to foster an awareness of the need to protect these valuable coastal assets."

These environments and fish and wildlife resources "are of extraordinary value and importance to all Mississippians."

Hunt said that coastal residents are asked to observe Coastweeks by making a special effort to keep beaches and waters clean.

In conjunction with the event, the bureau is distributing a brochure showing some of the possible effects of trash thrown into the ocean or washed into the ocean after being left on the beach.

Bearing the slogan "Don't Teach your Trash to Swim," the brochure explains wildlife deaths directly resulting from garbage.

These include birds and fish killed by such things as used fishing line and plastic six-pack rings that have entangled parts of their bodies or interfered with their ability to feed.

In addition, turtles can strangle on plastic bags that they mistake for jellyfish.

Boaters can also contribute the problem when trash falls or is thrown overboard.

Mississippi Realtors plan Florida convention

The Mississippi Association of Realtors will hold its 1987 annual convention Oct. 7-11 at the Sandestin Beach Hilton Hotel in Destin, Fla.

The programs will focus on real estate education, maintaining successful business operations, coping with uncertain economic conditions, political awareness, and the promotion of private property ownership.

The theme is "We Deserve A Break Away," and the convention is expected to draw a large number of members and other individuals interested in Mississippi's real estate industry.

Keynote speakers include Frank Cuevas-Baez, regional vice president of the National Association of Realtors from Caparra, Puerto Rico; Dave Beson of Minneapolis, Minn.; Joan Ballantyne, president-elect of the National Women's Council of Realtors from Cherokee, Iowa; T. K. and Company from Fort Walton Beach, Fla.; Archie Manning, New Orleans; and Laurene Janik, chief legal counsel for the National Association of Realtors.

Some of the programs included will be "Selling Today's Buyers," "Selling Today's Sellers," "Broker Liability: Sources and Solutions."

Sports activities planned include golf and tennis tournaments, fishing, rodeo and tour of Eden State Gardens.

Nine hours of continuing education credit has been approved by the Mississippi Real Estate Commission for the education programs.

Persons interested in real estate, free enterprise and preservation of private property rights, or anyone simply interested in hearing outstanding speakers are welcome to register for the convention by contacting the Mississippi Association of Realtors at 620 North State Street, Suite 301, Jackson 39202, or by calling (601) 355-0216.

The Mississippi Association of Realtors is a statewide professional trade association affiliated with the National Association of Realtors, and representing 26 local realtor boards throughout Mississippi with more than 3,000 members.

NASA selects firms to negotiate for liquid-fueled rocket booster study contracts

NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center at Huntsville, Ala. has selected two firms: General Dynamics of San Diego, Calif. and Martin-Marietta of New Orleans, La. to negotiate for conceptual design studies of liquid-fueled rocket boosters proposed for potential future use on the Space Shuttle and other, follow-on launch vehicles.

The two contracts, each valued at approximately $2.5 million, will involve 9-month parallel studies of both pressure-fed and pump-fed liquid-fueled rocket boosters. Both contractors will develop a recommended design concept for each system. The liquid rocket booster studies will evaluate various booster configurations and propellant combinations to establish potential designs.

The analyses will include rigorous assessments of performance, systems safety, reliability and integration of the LRB with the current Space Transportation System and existing launch facilities, recovery and reusability and both operational and development costs.

Other areas to be assessed during these studies will include cost effectiveness of recoverable versus expendable systems, techniques for recovery of the liquid rocket boosters, and salt water exposure damage control.

The Marshall Center will serve as NASA's primary center in cooperation with three other NASA centers. The Johnson Space Center in Houston, Texas, will investigate the proposed boosters' interface with the overall Space Transportation System; the Kennedy Space Center, Fla. will evaluate the liquid rocket boosters' effects on existing launch and vehicle assembly facilities; and Langley Research Center, Hampton, VA. will support evaluation of aerodynamic and aerothermal dynamic data generated at the Marshall Center.

Results of the liquid rocket booster study should be available by next summer to support NASA management decisions regarding possible liquid rocket booster implementation as a replacement for the current solid propellant booster system. These study results also could aid in future agency decisions regarding the planning and configurations selected for advanced launch vehicles.

NASA responds to committee report

NASA has reviewed the report by the National Research Council Committee on Space Station and agrees with most of the findings and recommendations.

NASA is extremely pleased that upon reviewing alternative configurations for the Space Station, the Committee judged none to be as satisfactory as NASA's Block 1 'baseline' and recommended that it be adopted as the initial Space Station configuration.

This recommendation provides an important, independent validation of the Space Station design which has been thoroughly studied for over 3 years. It provides clear evidence to the Administration and Congress that the Space Station NASA is developing is of sound design and properly balances fiscal restraint and program scope. However, NASA questions the Committee's findings regarding program risk and cost.

First, NASA does not agree that deployment of the Space Station with the current Space Transportation System (STS) will be "risky." This finding does not reflect the current state of Space Station planning. NASA has recently reexamined the capabilities of the post-Challenger STS system and has developed a modified assembly sequence that decreases the weight of the first and second payloads and gives NASA a high degree of confidence that the Space Station can be successfully deployed with the current Shuttle system.

These data, which delineated a modified assembly sequence, were recently presented to the NRC and may not have been fully evaluated to permit incorporation into the final NRC report.

Secondly, NASA believes the committee's estimate that up to $3.9 billion may be needed for back-up hardware and test program enhancements is much too high.

NASA agrees that additional back-up hardware, such as large structural spares used in the event such hardware is lost during manufacture, launch or assembly, may be needed. This contingency hardware would cost approximately $200 million. However, NASA's development cost estimate for the Space Station already includes a large amount of flight-type test hardware.

NASA also has developed a cost-effective test program that it believes provides the proper balance of flight and flight-type hardware and simulators to perform preflight element and launch package checkout.

NASA has based the deployment and routine resupply of the Space Station on a four-orbiter fleet and remains confident that the current fleet is adequate to support the Space Station program. NASA's mixed fleet plan provides the flexibility to further augment the transportation system depending upon user requirements and the balance between the need for additional orbiters and expendable launch vehicles will be continually addressed in the future.

NASA agrees with, and has already incorporated in its planning, many of the NRC Committee's other recommendations. NASA is working with other elements of the Administration and the Congress to provide a long-range focus for the nation's space program.

The Space Station represents a bold new chapter in America's quest to explore and utilize the environs of space. It will serve as the point of departure for U.S. efforts to continue manned and unmanned exploration of the solar system. President Reagan recognized the practical as well as the symbolic virtues of such an enabling facility when he directed NASA to develop the Space Station in 1984. Congress has been supportive, providing both funds and guidance.

The NRC report points out that the Space Station represents a national commitment and NASA strongly endorses that theme.

NASA believes the American people are committed to a bold and far-reaching program that will maintain the United States leadership position in the peaceful use of outer space. The Space Station represents an important step that will assure our future in space.

Rocks to battle Poplarville Hornets

The St. Stanislaus Rockchaws of Coach Ken Lyons will be on the road again this Friday when they travel to Poplarville to meet the Poplarville Hornets in a varsity football contest this Friday.

St. Stanislaus is 3-2 after losing to Hancock North Central last week. Poplarville is 2-3 by virtue of a close loss to North Forest last week.

In other encounters, Poplarville defeated Pearl River Central and East Central, while losing to Gulf Breeze, Fla. in overtime. The Hornets also lost in the fourth quarter against Lumberton earlier in the season.

The Rockchaws will be regrouping this week to show the determination and pride which earned them three consecutive victories.

"Our team experienced hurt pride and great disappointment last week," said SSC Coach Lyons. "This week we will show a few new wrinkles to get us back on the winning track."

Poplarville runs a Wing-T offense similar to Hancock North Central. Coach Lyons stated that the Hornets rely on their fullback for the inside yardage, and on their halfback and wingback for their misdirection end runs.

This will be the sixth game of the season for the Rocks. Entering into the second half of the season, coach Lyons said, "A positive-minded team will take a defeat and learn from it. We intend to re-group, improve, adjust, and to rebound strongly."

The Rocks will also be facing a homecoming crowd for the second week in a row.

"The problems with homecoming are the pre-game distractions. We need to isolate our players from these distractions," stated Coach Lyons.

When asked what it must take for the Rocks to win Friday night, Coach Lyons replied tongue-in-cheek, "Why, improved coaching, of course!"

Raiders bow to Christians

The Coast Episcopal High School Raiders travelled to Bogalusa, Louisiana last Friday night and met a hard-nosed, exceptionally good Bens Ford Christian School team which came out from the opening kick off ready to play.

After running the opening kick off back 75 yards for a touchdown, the otherwise stingy Raider defense gave up 20 more points in the first half, providing Bens Ford with a comfortable cushion, 26-0.

The Raiders first half efforts could not hold a tall and quick quarterback from Bens Ford who ran and passed for their 26 first half points. The Raiders offense managed 24 yards rushing and 50 yards passing during that same period of time and could not score due to numerous penalties.

The second half was a different story as the Raiders outscored the Eagles 6-0, gaining 84 yards rushing and 50 yards passing with Mike Kergosien running 9 yards for the Raiders only score. The Eagles did score another touchdown when Raider reserves were on the field providing the 32-6 final score.

Chris Riggs had a fine night offensively, completing 10 of 21 passes for 109 yards, rushing 4 yards, and adding 5 tackles on defense. Sophomore Billy Guice had his best effort of the season rushing for 7 yards, adding 83 yards on pass receptions and 20 yards on kick returns.

Guice also had 9 tackles on defense. Sophomore Scott Covode had 41 yards and 6 tackles, Juniors Rea Montjoy 33 yards and 13 tackles, and Jason Evans 20 yards and 9 tackles. Jamie Iadner had his finest effort on defense making 24 tackles for the night.

"The Raiders are working hard to develop consistency on offense," said Coach Mahan, "and will have to turn in an excellent performance to stay even with their next opponent, Cornerstone Academy of Baton Rouge."

The Raiders will be facing their toughest road game of the year in playing Cornerstone at their homecoming. Game time is 1 p.m. at Bel Aire High School in Baton Rouge this Saturday.

Hawks see win over St. Martin as chance for state playoffs

By BRENDA HEATHCOCK
The undefeated Hancock North Central Hawks will be on the road this week to face district rival the St. Martin Yellow Jackets.

A win this week will put a "foot" in the door for the Hawks to go to state playoffs, according to Head Coach Irvin Favre.

"We are undefeated and feel like this is a must win situation for use if we want to go to state playoffs," he added.

St. Martin has a season record of four wins and a single loss. The Yellow Jackets only loss was at the hands of district foe d'Iberville, 28-7.

This strong team has defeated another district team, George County High School, 14-0.

The Yellow Jackets have also defeated Vancleave, 17-7; Pass Christian, 30-6; and Robertsdale, Alabama High School, 9-6.

"A win this week will put us in good position in the state playoffs picture," Favre said.

The top two teams in the district go to state playoffs and a win over St. Martin is "most important" if the Hawks are to go to these playoffs, he said.

To defeat St. Martin, Favre says the Hawks must overcome the size of the average offensive and defensive lineman and find a way to beat the multiple offense played by the Yellow Jackets.

Favre says St. Martin has the "biggest football Hancock will face all year."

"Yellow Jackets offensive and defensive linemen have an average weight of 225 pounds, but the Hawk linemen only average 200 pounds," he said.

"Their size is the thing we are most concerned about because we have never played a real big team all the way across like this," Favre added.

An average weight of 225 indicates some really "massive" players and this can wear down smaller players quick, he said.

"We are also very concerned about the way they run multiple defenses," he said.

According to Favre St. Martin basically has three types of defensive sets and they "stunt" a lot. Stunting or rushing the linebacker through gaps in the offensive line causes a lot of confusion in offensive blocking, he said.

"We have watched the Yellow Jackets on film and in person and have seen that their multiple defense can cause you problems that will lead to defeat," he said.

The St. Martin offense runs from a simple I-formation and they like to just get in behind their big lineman and run," he said.

"We are going to have to buckle down and stop that power offense," Favre said.

The big play man for the Yellow Jackets is Ernest Mosley, a 6'1", 180 pound running back, he added.

"Mosley gets the ball 90 percent of the time but he does not get worn down because of the protection of those big line men," Favre said.

St. Martin really keys on this man, he added.

"The Hawks are going to have to rise to the occasion and do play the good football games they have been playing in the previous weeks," he said.

"Hancock played extremely well against a good Stanislaus team and the Hawks are to be commended for the way they stopped the Rockchaws," Favre added.

In the Hancock-Stanislaus football game, the Hawks scored eight touchdowns will holding the Rockchaws to two scores.

The first touchdown was by on the first offensive drive. Terrence Goff returned a punt to the SSC 19-yard line and then carried it in the end-zone on the next play. Kicker Larry Beeck made the extra point.

Quarterback Jeff Moran connected with Toby Dastague next for a 51-yard touchdown pass.

It was Goff again for the Hawks third touchdown on a five-yard run.

Moran tossed another 50 yards plus touchdown pass this time Terrence Goff was in for the catch.

Vincent Cuevas scored next on a five-yard run.

Donald Vince added the next two touchdowns for the Hawks, on a 14-yard run and a 30-yard run. For a two-point conversion Moran tossed the ball to Vincent Cuevas.

The final touchdown was by Clinton Carter and the final score was 55-12.

"We had a tremendous crowd here at Hancock for the Stanislaus game and probably the largest crowd ever at a home game," he said.

"But this week we will be on the road and I hope the fans will go with us to give support as we face this district rival," Favre said.

The Hawks have been getting better each week and hopefully they will continue this week against St. Martin.

Kickoff will be at 7:30 p.m.

3-A Tigers to face 5-A Bearcats

BY DENA BISNETTE
The Bay Senior High Tigers will play their first contest against a 5-A school Friday when they travel to Long Beach to take on the Bearcats.

Bay High, a 3-A school, has a season record of four wins, with their only loss being to Stone County in the season opener. Long Beach has four losses.

According to Tiger Head Coach Cleveland Williams, Long Beach may be a challenge for the Tigers despite that record.

"Even though the Bearcats are going through some rebuilding stages and have failed to be on the win column, the competition the Bearcats have played and received losses from were all good, respectable ballclubs," Williams said.

Those teams include Ocean Springs, George County, Gulfport and one local team, St. Stanislaus.

"We are working harder in preparation for the clash with Long Beach," the coach said. "We'll be outweighed per man on defense and offense but I hope our quickness will compensate for that advantage."

Although the Bearcats have an experienced quarterback, the running backs are sophomores, which means Bay High will have to be prepared to defend against an aerial attack.

"I know that Coach Magee's club passes 55 percent in the duration of a ball game," the Tiger coach said.

"We will have to play sound defense to overtake the Bearcats and we will be tested to see how sound our pass defense really is," Williams added.

On offense, Williams praised the performance of some of the players expected to see action Friday.

"We are getting a lot of help out of Aaron Whavers, Brian Laneaux and Andrew Collins, who are doing a respectable job of running the ball."

"On our passing attack, Doug Rhodes, Dante Curry, Rickey Whavers and Darrin Washington are doing a good job."

Laneaux is still the team's leading scorer, with 14 touchdowns for the season and 753 yards rushing.

Friday's probable starting line-up fell to 3-2 overall.

"East Central has a very good ball club," said Nelson. "Their quarterback is probably as good as we have played all year. They have been in every game."

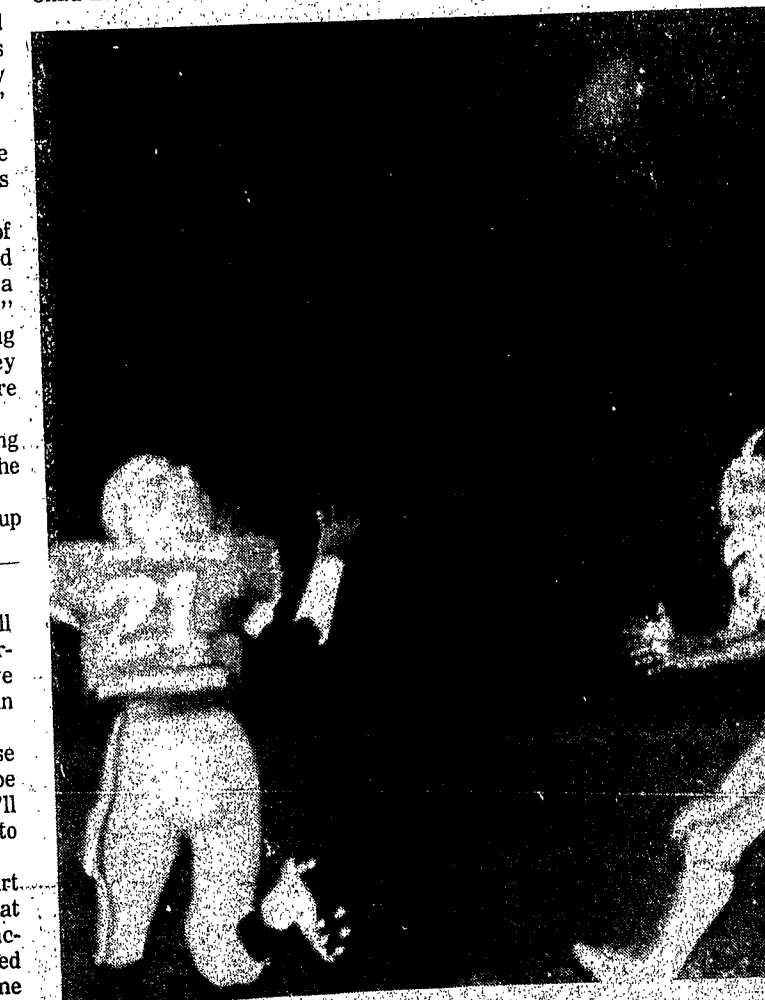

Nelson said the Warrior defense was solid. "Our offense will be tested again," said Nelson. "We'll have to play an exceptional game to stop our losing skid."

Nelson said bad calls really hurt the Wildcats' effort last Thursday at Senatobia. "In our opinion and according to the tape, officials missed three to four calls during the game which really hurt us," said Nelson.

"The game was close enough that the calls could have very easily changed the outcome of the contest."

for offense includes Travis Haynes, center; Heath Hoppood and Lance Bell, tackles; Jerry Island and Doral Nichols, guards; Darrin Washington, tight end; Andrew Collins, fullback; Aaron Whavers, running back; Doug Rhodes, wingback; Rickey Whavers, split end; and Chad LaFontaine, quarterback.

Probable starters on defense include Bell and Washington, ends; Amadae Collins and Island, tackles; Monty Strong and Aaron Whavers, middle linebackers; Ed Elliot and Andrew Collins, outside linebackers; Rhodes and Curry, cornerbacks; and Rickey Whavers, safety.

TIGER RICKEY WHAVERS, 21, beats an East Central defender to a pass reception during Bay High's homecoming victory over the Hornets last week. Coach rates Wildcat performance disappointing

Very disappointing. That's about all Mike Nelson, the Pearl River College head coach has to say about his Wildcats 2-3 mark here at mid-season.

"Jones...we should have won; Hinds...we could have won; and Northwest...we just didn't win," said Nelson, in his observation of the first half of the '87 season.

"I was really expecting us to be undefeated at this point," said Nelson. "Now we have to start over and go undefeated during the second half."

The first game of the new season is against East Central this Saturday afternoon at Decatur. It's the Warriors' Homecoming and it will not be an easy task to get back on the winning track.

Last week the Wildcats lost to Northwest 31-27. The week before the Cats dropped a 26-22 decision to Hinds. East Central on the other hand lost to Hinds 14-7 last week

Offensive, defensive work considered in selecting outstanding prep players

By EDGAR H. PEREZ

Quarterback Jeff Moran of the Hancock North Central Hawks is cited as 'Player of the Week' at HNC following the Hawks' 55-12 homecoming romp over St. Stanislaus Friday.

The awards program sponsors—Loiacano's Health Club in Bay St. Louis and Rick's Trophies in Waveland—report Moran's selection is based on his contribution of two touchdown passes of 51 and 52 yards, respectively, and a two-point conversion pass.

Moran went four-for-four in passing during the evening for a total of 138 yards.

Stanislaus' senior offensive tackle Shane Sigsworth earned the outstanding honors from among the Rockachaws.

He is cited as 'a consistent blocker throughout the first half of the season,' 'an excellent football player and student.'

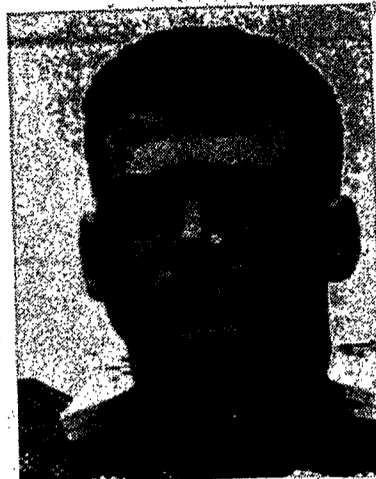

Pass Christian back Eric Dawkins carried 12 times against Stone County for a total of 53 yards and is credited with nine tackles on defense to be named 'outstanding' among the Pirates.

'Player of the Week' at Coast Episcopal this week is Billy Guice who plays at tailback and safety. Guice's kickoff returns against the Baton Rouge Christian Academy totaled 83 yards.

In addition, he accumulated 57 yards on pass receptions and seven yards rushing for a total of 147. Nine tackles on defense cinched the honor for the Raider.

Bay High's Lance Bell is honored this week for his three quarterback sacks, nine assists and four unassisted tackles in the Tigers 41-8 homecoming win over East Central. Bell is a senior playing at defensive.

Raider Volleyball Team sustains Louisiana losses

The Coast Episcopal Raiders Volleyball Team traveled to River Ridge, La. for the first games of the season.

This is the first volleyball team organized at Coast Episcopal high School in four years.

With very few practices, the Raiders took on tough competition in the form of two Louisiana teams, Word of Life Academy and Riverside Academy.

In the first set against Riverside, the Raiders were defeated 15-1. Melissa "Mikey" Catron capturing the point. In the second set, Leanne Stafford gained two points and Ginny Edwards scored four points, making the final score 15-6, Riverside.

The Raiders then competed against Word of Life Academy. In both sets the Raiders were unsuccessful.

The score for the first set was 15-7, with Jennifer Burkett receiving two points; Rachel Pulliam gaining one point, Sharon Orlin scoring one point and Ginny Edwards receiving three points. The second set was lost 15-5, scorers were Ginny Edwards with one point, "Mikey" Catron with one point, and Rachel Pulliam scoring three points.

The remaining players which make up the team are Pilar Frederick, Cherie Little, Megan Uram and Lauren Gipson. The Raiders Volleyball team is coached by Calvin Smith.

Gonzales, Labat, Murray fare well in Hattiesburg Tennis Classic

Mississippi's next group of young tennis stars may well have Bay St. Louis mailing addresses. It was an All-Bay area final in the Boys' 12-and-Under Division of the Hattiesburg MTA Fall Circuit Tennis Tournament this past weekend. Manuel Gonzales and Myron Labat Jr., displayed excellent shot-making skills along with match-play strategy that come only after endless hours of practice and many, many tournament matches.

Though neither player was seeded in the tournament, Gonzales managed to upset the No. 1 and No. 3 seeds, using a consistent volley and a lethal backhand passing shot.

Labat utilized penetrating approach shots and well-placed overhead smashes to dispose of three opponents (including the No. 2 seed) en route to the final confrontation with his St. Stanislaus class mate and best friend, Gonzales.

It was a thrilling final match with both players going with their strengths and attacking the other player's weaknesses.

Gonzales fought off three break points at 4-4 in the second set, and was able to win in straight sets, 6-1 and 6-4.

Another Bay St. Louis product, Kellie Murray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ron Murray, used a flurry of deep forehand groundstrokes to dispose of three opponents on her way to winning the Feed-In Consolation Bracket in the Girls' 10-and-Under Division of the same tournament.

In the finals of the FIC, Murray defeated M'Lee Welch of Laurel who had beaten Murray the day before in the first round of the main draw.

Murray, Gonzales and Labat are all coached by Labat's father, Myron Labat Sr., head tennis coach of St. Stanislaus for the past two seasons. In his two years as head of the SSC tennis program, Labat has compiled a 19-3 record against other schools.

In addition to putting their fine skills and attacking styles on display, all three players displayed excellent sportsmanship. Labat executed a thrilling 0-6, 6-4, 7-5 comeback victory in the semi-finals over an Alabama player whose court demeanor left something to be desired.

Both Labat and Murray were awarded the Sportsmanship Trophies in their respective divisions.

Eagles win big

HATTIESBURG—Just about everything the Golden Eagles tried worked to perfection Saturday night in Louisville as the University of Southern Mississippi rolled to a 65-6 victory over the Cardinals, the most one-sided victory in the 14-game series between the two schools.

The 65 point outburst also marks the most points scored by a USM team since a 70-0 victory over Cal. St.-Fullerton late in the 1975 season.

After having failed to score in the opening period in the first three games of the season, the Eagles put three touchdowns on the board within the space of 116 seconds midway through the initial stanza in Cardinal Stadium, and went on to amass their highest offensive output totals of the season—519 yards, compared to 224 for Louisville.

USM improved to 2-2 and will host nationally ranked Florida State Saturday (1:00 p.m.) for Homecoming '87. Louisville fell to 2-2-1.

The USM offensive fireworks were highlighted by Shelton Gandy who bettered his single game yardage total for the second time this season as he ran for 171 yards and two TD's on 14 carries. He earlier had 167 yards on 36 carries against Tulane. Gandy is averaging just over 117 yards per game and is on schedule for a thousand-yard-plus rushing season.

He also had plenty of help. Filling in for the injured Carl Jones and Eddie Ray Jackson at fullback, Ricky Bradley and Reginald Warnley (both of Bay Springs, Miss.) rushed for career highs (93 and 64 yards respectively) and no fewer than eight Golden Eagle runners recorded rushing stats.

Freshman Brett Favre completed only five of the 12 passes (100 yards) he attempted but three of them went for TD's, giving the Hancock North Central youngster seven passing scores in two and one half games.

Senior wide receiver Chris McGee (Biloxi, Miss.) caught two of Favre's passes, both for touchdowns (38 and 22 yards). He now has a team-leading three TD receptions.

Sophomore tight end Preston Hansford (Maylene, Ala.) caught Favre's other scoring toss, and Bradley and junior tailback Craig Shackelford (Decatur, Ala.) both had touchdown runs and both senior defensive end Eric Redd (Brandon, Miss.) and senior defensive back John Baylor (Meridian, Miss.) had punt block returns (29 yards and 17 yards respectively) to account for USM's nine touchdown outburst.

In addition to the two blocked punts, the Golden Eagle defense came up with four pass interceptions for 80 yards and limited coach Howard Schnellenberger's troops to only nine total first downs and the one fourth period touchdown.

When You Notice the Symptoms, Don't Ignore the Disease.

Chemical dependency is a baffling disease that is neither the fault of the parent nor the teen. Oftentimes, parents try to ignore it for a number of reasons—possible feelings of guilt, conflicting advice and a hope that it is just a temporary phase.

In about half of the cases, they also are avoiding another family member's addiction.

Meanwhile, the teenager does his best to hide the effects of the disease. Unable to stop, he'll do or say anything to disguise and minimize his substance abuse. Unfortunately, when the symptoms can no longer be denied, the addiction is six-months- to two-years-old.

Look for these symptoms if your teen is experiencing a crisis of addiction:

- Frequent flare-ups and hostility
- A change in sleeping habits
- Less time at home, unexplained absences
- Mysterious callers and different friends
- Secretive seclusion in bedroom

- Need or demand for extra money
 - Changed outlook and physical appearance
- While a growing majority of teens experiment with alcohol and drugs, an estimated 10 to 15 percent become lifetime addicts.

At CPC Sand Hill Hospital, we treat only teens. Our team of specialists help families to work through the extremely emotional ordeal of intervention. Then, they help him build a more healthy support system. One based on a realistic view of his family, an appreciation of his own spirituality and commitment to sobriety.

Winter tune-up: Your best bet for worry-free cold weather driving

Ⓜ If this winter is similar to others, as many as 30 percent of America's motorists will have problems starting their cars. They'll blame the cold or a faulty car battery.

But, the fact is, the majority of all winter car problems can be avoided through a simple winter tune-up.

Now is the time to winterize your car. To be sure you're ready for those sub-zero temperatures, the blowing snow and the other wraths of winter, The Gates Rubber Company, a leading manufacturer of automotive belts and hoses, says a pre-winter tune-up is vital to your car's winter efficiency.

In fact, a complete tune-up is more than twice as effective against winter starting difficulties as is battery service alone.

The importance of a thorough pre-winter tune-up doesn't just apply to snowy, cold and blowing areas of the country. It's just as important in warmer climates which generally experience wet, humid and damp conditions. Such weather also affects a car's starting abilities.

Before the season changes, be sure your service station gives your car a thorough check of all systems. The entire cooling system should also be checked. Your serviceman should look for leaks, rusty coolant, and worn belts and hoses. If the engine belts and hoses are more than four years old, have them replaced, regardless of visual condition, suggests Gates.

Fresh anti-freeze should be installed for maximum protection against the elements and a rust-clogged radiator. Have your oil and oil filter changed, if necessary.

A pre-winter check-up should include a battery service check. The voltage needed to start a car increases when the engine has broken or cracked ignition cables, worn spark plugs or plugs with wide gaps, a worn distributor cap or rotor, or a corroded distributor cap. Wet or cold weather compounds these battery problems.

Worn spark plugs will also increase the electrical requirement; they may require up to twice as much electric energy as new plugs.

In addition to having an engine tune-up, be sure that your car is safe and ready for winter.

Have the service station check your snow or radial tires, car brakes, lights and windshield wipers. Have your exhaust system checked to be sure lethal carbon monoxide fumes do not leak into the passenger section. This is especially important during the winter season's "windows closed" driving weather.

Emissions efficiency is also particularly important during the winter months. Since winter conditions confine most cars to heavily populated areas, the potential for saturating the air with pollutants is greater. So, have your serviceman also examine your emissions accessories.

Once the bad weather hits, keep your car's body free of salt deposits. Salt contributes to early body deterioration.

Following these simple winterizing hints can help your car's operating efficiency. With proper care and a simple pre-winter tune-up, you can be on the road in snow and cold — while others are wishing they were.

Gas additives are problem solvers

Within the past 12 to 18 months, a number of new car problems have been in the news. These problems have centered around the great strides forward in automobile technology and great strides backward in gasoline technology.

First, increases in engine octane requirements have been occurring as automobile manufacturers have been pressured to find new ways to further improve fuel economy.

Second, the combination of new fuel injector technology and lower fuel quality has caused many new engines to experience loss of performance due to injector clogging.

Finally, the removal of lead from gasoline is threatening autos designed to run on leaded gasoline with catastrophic valve seat wear.

When these problems occur, the solution is often expensive. Premium gasoline is more premium than ever, with cost differentials between premium and regular gasoline pushing 30 cents or more per gallon in many cases.

Fuel injector clogging requires a visit to the dealer or repair shop for a costly injector cleaning service or, in some cases, injector replacement.

A new approach to handling these problems is the use of special chemicals added to gasoline in the vehicle tank. One company, Gold Eagle Co., of Chicago, Illinois, has introduced a whole new line of four do-it-yourself gasoline additives called The Quantum System.

Each of the four formulas is designed to solve one of the problems mentioned above. This problem-solving approach is expected to be the new trend in gasoline additives. The days of mystery are fading away. Now gasoline additives are more than just a wish and a prayer.

With products like the Quantum System, auto DIYers can find the product that solves their particular problem instead of buying a general purpose gas additive that may or may not help.

Also, these types of products are often able to solve the problems of dirty fuel injectors, power loss, hesitation, stalling, surges, sluggishness, rough idle and lost fuel economy with only one treatment.

Old gas additives had to be used with every tankful to be fully effective, and problems would persist for several tankfuls before the additive could help. The new stronger additives work much more quickly, and need not be used more than once every two to three months.

Experts offer pointers on how to prepare and maintain your car's cooling system for winter

Don't get caught by an early freeze this year. Take the time now to prepare your car for the cold winter months ahead.

The experts at Prestone offer these guidelines to help you give your car the winter protection it needs:

• Check Antifreeze/Coolant Level — If your car's cooling system has an antifreeze/coolant recovery reservoir, the radiator should be full of antifreeze. If your car does not have a recovery reservoir, the antifreeze level should be about one inch below the filler neck when the engine is cold.

Antifreeze coolant like Prestone Advanced Formula is especially good for cooling systems because it not only lowers the freezing point of the system to -84°F., but raises its boilover temperatures to 276°F.

Protects all types of metals

In addition, the product incorporates an inhibitor system that protects against corrosion on all types of metals typically found in cooling systems.

• Inspect For Contamination — Visually inspect the antifreeze, which should be free from sediment. If sediment is present, the cooling system should be flushed and refilled with fresh antifreeze.

• Flush Out Radiator Corrosion — Old antifreeze may still prevent freeze-up and boilover, but the chemicals that prevent rust and corrosion are substantially depleted after an average year's service.

To keep your cooling system in the best condition, it should be cleaned out with a product such as Prestone Super Flush before a new supply of antifreeze/coolant is added.

Flushing is a simple procedure, requiring only a garden hose in addition to the attachments supplied with a kit such as the Prestone Flush 'N Fill Kit.

Flush entire system

The kit allows you to flush out your entire cooling system in about five minutes, leaving it clean and operating more efficiently.

• Refill Antifreeze/Coolant — To refill the antifreeze/coolant, check the capacity of your cooling system in your owner's manual. Pour enough antifreeze into your radiator for a 50 to 70 percent concentration (70 percent will provide maximum freezing protection for cooler weather).

Before replacing the radiator cap, run the engine until it reaches a normal temperature. Then turn off the engine, let it cool about three minutes, and check the coolant level. Again, add more antifreeze if necessary.

Importance of periodic checks

Finally, remember to periodically check your coolant level to ensure trouble-free driving all winter.

ACCUMULATED RUST DEPOSITS and oil residue from cooling systems are removed by Prestone Super Flush.

Slow warmup can harm engine

If your car has been slow to warm up during these cold mornings, your engine may need a new thermostat. This is a temperature-actuated valve that controls the flow of cool water from the radiator to the engine. Its main function: To hold the engine temperature within specified limits, not only for maximum efficiency but also for passenger comfort.

Replacing this part is a relatively minor expense that could pay for itself in short order, says Car Care Council. A thermostat that's stuck in the open position will allow the engine to run too cold, accelerating wear on critical parts. Cold operation can create condensation water in the crankcase, causing the oil to form sludge, too.

Further, a cold engine may burn 10 to 20 percent more gas than it should. A thermostat that sticks in the closed position, on the other hand, will restrict coolant flow, causing overheating and possible damage to the engine.

Another valve in the cooling system is the radiator pressure cap. This keeps the cooling system under pressure, thereby increasing the boiling point of the coolant.

When the pressure cap fails the car may overheat and coolant will be lost to the overflow tank or, on cars without the tank, to the ground.

A visual check of the pressure cap may disclose a faulty gasket or a weak spring. The best way to check this cap is with a pressure tester, designed for this purpose.

Most service shops are equipped with a pressure tester that not only checks the condition of the cap but also the rest of the cooling system for leaks.

A pressure test before installing new anti-freeze could save trouble later.

For a primer on how the cooling system works and how to keep it working, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with 25c to: Automotive Cooling System Institute, 222 Cedar Lane, Teaneck, NJ 07666. They'll send you their 16-page, illustrated booklet entitled: Understanding Your Car's Cooling System.

Women drivers are changing automotive service

Professional women, busy mothers, working wives, even lady taxi and truck drivers — the streets are full of them, and their needs and attitudes are changing the automotive service industry.

It used to be a man's world, but the old-fashioned neighborhood garage, with its greasy bays and girly calendars, is fast becoming a relic of the past.

The growing number of women drivers is demanding more courteous service, cleaner facilities and, above all, auto technicians who can be trusted.

Today, convenient new types of automotive service are appearing, and women drivers like what they see. Typical of these services are the fast oil change or quick lube centers, which provide needed maintenance service quickly and without a wait.

"Women don't trust many auto mechanics," says Nadine Schulte, a young professional woman from Baltimore, Md. "A quick lube center is different, however. You know that you've gotten what you paid for."

The largest of these convenience chains is Jiffy Lube, where a team of three technicians provides the driver with an oil change, a new oil filter, chassis lubrication and a check of all engine fluids.

In addition, one of the automotive technicians washes the windows, vacuums the interior, and checks windshield wipers and tire inflation. The complete service takes about 10 minutes, and requires no appointment.

The lube bays, where technicians work on the cars, are clean; in some locations, they are paved with designer tiles. And while the service proceeds, the customer waits in a spotless lounge where coffee is served.

One thing the chain's management insists upon is courtesy. This is a rare commodity in our hectic market place, but one that customers remember.

And because the service centers specialize in one type of service — lubrication and related maintenance — there is no big sell job. No mechanical work is on the menu of services, so technicians concentrate on being quick and skilled.

Some women still feel threatened by mechanics. Anecdotes abound about the garage that takes advantage of "the little lady" and her ignorance of what goes on under the hood.

Fortunately, today's woman is hard to take advantage of. She is pretty savvy about her car, and she knows how to demand quality service. And more and more automotive services are learning how to serve this new breed of driver.

Take the Truth in Rust Test

Some consumers resort to comparing vehicle rust protection by price. This "price only" philosophy may cost the rust protection buyer more money in the long run because of inferior protection.

To assist consumers, Ziebart Corporation has prepared a "Truth in Rust Test" to use when comparison shopping for rust protection.

"The Truth in Rust Test"

1. Make sure the rustproofers uses at least two gallons of sealant. Beware of car dealers or rustproofing firms that spray only one quart of sealant in the form of a "fog" or "mist." Also beware of oiling — it will not protect your vehicle against corrosion.

2. The rustproofers should employ factory-trained technicians. If the rustproofers tells you they are trained technicians, ask to see their course certificates.

3. To achieve proper access and coverage, approximately 20 holes must be drilled and a high pressure, direct spray method used. The holes should be sealed with sturdy, air-tight plugs when the job is completed.

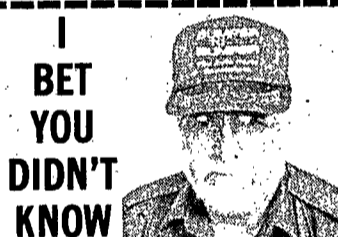

4. A variety of specially-engineered tools should be used for maximum sealant coverage on a car's interior sheet metal. These tools get at every seam and weld where rust can start.

5. A quality rust protection process usually requires three hours to complete; less time means less protection.

6. Ask to see the warranty before buying rust protection. The warranty should cover the entire car, including the roof. Many rustproofing warranties only cover the areas sprayed. You should receive a Lifetime Warranty that is transferable.

Brought To You By Jim Henrie

Here's the story about how the famous Notre Dame "Victory March" was written. (This is the song that starts out "Cheer, Cheer For Old Notre Dame")...It has become the best known football tune of all-time—and, actually, it was written by a priest, in 1909...One day at a game that season, Father Michael Shea decided Notre Dame should have an appropriate song...At the time, they didn't have one...After the game Father Shea went to a piano in a nearby building, but someone was using the piano...so, Father Shea then went to the Sacred Heart Church on campus and composed the song on the organ at the church!...His brother, John Shea, then wrote the words...And thus, football's most famous fight song was written on a church organ.

Here's a hard-to-believe fact about the great Jim Brown who played in the National Football League from 1957 through 1965 and once held the record for gaining more yards rushing than anyone else in the history of pro football. Despite gaining all those yards, Brown NEVER missed a game because of injuries in ANY of his 9 full seasons in the NFL!...That's amazing when you consider the beating Brown took from tacklers game after game.

I bet you didn't know...The smart people in town buy their engine overhaul kits at Auto World. Why? Michigan bearings, Felpro gaskets, and the best price around.

Duck season means steel shot

JACKSON—For the true waterfowler the upcoming duck and goose season is less than two months away. That means it's not as far away as it has been.

In anticipation of this season the Department of Wildlife Conservation wants there to be no question in anyone's mind that steel shot will be required in all areas across Mississippi this year for hunting waterfowl. Period.

The five-member Commission on Wildlife Conservation announced on Monday afternoon, Sept. 28, that they have reaffirmed their decision to implement steel shot in the Magnolia State this year.

The commission did say, however, that after this hunting season they will reevaluate the situation and reserve the right to revert back to a phased-in program next year if deemed appropriate.

This year the duck season opens Dec. 5 and extends through Dec. 7, reopening Dec. 12 and closing Jan. 17.

The daily bag limit will be birds worth 100 points and the possession limit will be 200 points, with no possession limit allowed on the opening day of any season.

The shooting hours for waterfowl are one-half hour before sunrise until sunset, unless further restricted on state and federal wildlife management areas. Hunters must have their shotguns plugged and incapable of holding more than three shells.

The department is correcting an error in a previously published date for the hunting and blue and snow geese in Mississippi. The correct opening and closing dates for these birds are Nov. 9 until Jan. 17.

Hunters asked to avoid damaging telephone lines

With the opening of dove season, South Central Bell's District Manager Pat Santucci is asking hunters to be extremely careful when they shoot.

Doves often perch on telephone lines and poles, Santucci noted, and bird shot can puncture cables and cause out of service conditions.

According to Santucci, damaged lines hurt everyone—customers are without service, the company must make time consuming and expensive repairs.

The party responsible could be billed for the damage. Hunters are asked to shoot carefully when near telephone lines or equipment to avoid damage, she said.

Public hearings scheduled on billfish plan

TAMPA FLA.—Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council will conduct nine hearings to allow the public to comment and suggest changes to a draft fishery management plan to regulate harvest of marlins, sailfish, and spearfish in federal waters.

The draft plan was jointly prepared by five east coast Councils and will regulate the fishery from Maine to Texas and in the Caribbean. Written comments on the draft plan will be accepted until Nov. 2.

The major provisions of the plan that the Councils are proposing be adopted as federal rule are as follows:

Only rods and reels may be used to harvest billfish.

Sale of billfish be prohibited, including imported fish or fish caught in international waters.

Require minimum size limits for blue marlin of 200 pounds, white marlin of 50 pounds and sailfish of 30 pounds.

Longline and net vessels must release all billfish.

Persons fishing tournaments must report catches. Existing rules prohibiting harvest by foreign vessels be continued.

Copies of the draft plan may be obtained from the Council by calling (813) 228-2815 or from your local Sea-Grant marine extension agent.

All hearings are scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

The Mississippi Coast hearing is scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 14 at the Seafood Museum, US-90 East, Biloxi.

The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council is one of eight regional Fishery Management Councils which were established by the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act of 1976. The Gulf of Mexico Fishery Management Council prepares fishery management plans which are designed to manage fishery resources in the 200-mile limit in the Gulf of Mexico.

Allen receives two state honors

Pearl River College instructor Doris Allen recently received the top award from two state-wide associations.

In early August, Allen, the practical nursing instructor at the Hancock County Center north of Bay St. Louis, was named Alumnus of the year by the Mississippi Association of Vocational Educators (MAVE).

This organization includes all vocational education instructors in the state.

Just two days after receiving that honor she was named Outstanding Educator of the year and received that award from Health Occupations Educators of Mississippi.

This organization includes instructors for practical nursing, respiratory therapy and all other health related courses taught in Mississippi.

Allen, a graduate of Liberty High School in southwest Mississippi, has been an instructor at Pearl River College for the past 18 years.

"I remember when we started out in a house across from the now Hancock Medical Center in Bay St. Louis," said Allen, who has seen 225 students graduate during her time with PRC.

Today, the program is housed in modern facilities at the Hancock Center.

"We take 15 students per year and we average 12 graduating," Allen said.

"Of those 225 graduates, only three have failed to become licensed practical nurses or gone on to become registered nurses."

The practical nursing program is a 12-month course which includes 1800 hours of instruction. Six hundred hours is made up of academic work which includes 12 subjects and 1200 hours of clinical training.

Allen teaches all 12 subjects required for the program.

Allen graduated from the McComb Infirmary School of Nursing, which at that time was the same as today's registered nurse program. Since then she has received a bachelor's degree in Industrial Technical Education (ITE) with nursing and education majors and a psychology minor.

In fact, Allen was one of the two first females in Mississippi to get into the University of Southern Mississippi ITE Program.

She later received a masters of education degree from the University of Georgia in Health Occupations Education with special emphasis in curriculum leadership.

Allen recently completed the course work for her bachelor of science in nursing from the University of South Alabama in Mobile.

She will enter the masters program of thoracic surgeons, staff nurse at the Methodist Hospital in Hattiesburg, med-surgical unit supervisor in Meadville and operating room supervisor at the Field Memorial Hospital in Centerville.

She has also worked as a new-born nursery supervisor at Gulfport Memorial Hospital and served as an office nurse and, taught operating room techniques.

"Practical nursing is needed in Mississippi," said Allen. "At this time there is a deficit of RN's and LPN's."

Allen said there is a 12 percentage shortage of nurses in the state according to the Mississippi State Department of Education.

Practical nurses who are licensed can work in doctors' offices, clinics, hospitals, nursing homes, and dialysis units. The starting salaries range from about $6 per hour to $1100 per month.

DORIS ALLEN

gram in nursing at South Alabama this fall.

"I'm getting this master's degree because I promised myself I would get it one day," Allen said. "It is something I always wanted to do."

The PRC instructor is married to Lawrence Allen and they have two children—Debra Lynn and Stuart. Both attended Pearl River College. The Allens make their home in Pass Christian.

Lawrence was a football coach which meant moving around a lot and that's the reason that she was able to work in several places before coming to PRC.

"We moved around a lot in the early years of our marriage," Allen said. "Since Lawrence stopped coaching and became a salesman here on the coast we have been able to settle into a community."

Before coming to Pearl River, Allen was a private duty nurse for a

Scholarships offered seniors

RESTON, Va.—High school seniors wishing to earn substantial scholarship awards and test their leadership potential can compete in the Century III Leaders program.

Almost $250,000 in college scholarship awards will be provided by Century III Leaders this year, including $11,500 in scholarship awards for the top winner.

Applications must be completed by Oct. 22, 1987.

"Participating in Century III Leaders was one of the best things I've ever done," said Anne McKeen of Knoxville, Tenn., the 1987 national winner. "No other awards program that I know of demonstrates so much confidence and interest in America's youth and our ideas."

"Besides," she added, "it was a lot of fun!"

Seniors interested in entering the competition, now in its 13th year, should contact their principals for applications.

Students in public, private, and parochial schools are eligible for the program, which is supported by the Shell Companies Foundation, Inc., and administered by the National Association of Secondary School Principals.

The application stresses school and community service, scholarship, and identification of a challenge facing the nation in its third century. Students are also required to pass a current events examination.

School winners advance to state-level competition, where two winners and two runners-up are chosen. State winners each receive $1,500 college scholarship awards, while the runners-up win $500 scholarships.

The two winners from each state and the District of Columbia are also given all expense-paid trips to the national Century III Leaders conference in Colonial Williamsburg, Va., March 18-21, 1988.

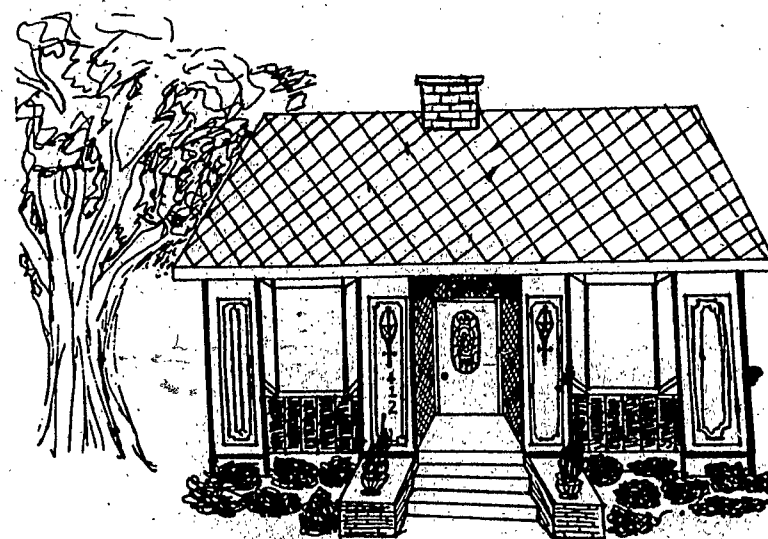

In Williamsburg, the 102 delegates meet with national experts in business, education, and government; debate key issues of national policy; and compete for additional scholarships, including $10,000 to the national winner and $500 to each of nine runners-up.

"The national conference was an unforgettable experience, worth every bit as much as the financial award," said McKeen, now a freshman at the University of Virginia. "It was inspiring to meet teens from across the nation who are really interested and excited about America's future."

All state finalists and runners-up become members of the Century III Leaders Alumni program. Alumni are eligible for grants of up to $5,000 for post-graduate studies or service projects.

St. Stanislaus journalists celebrate first national Yearbook Week

The Yearbook Staff at St. Stanislaus this week is participating in the first national Yearbook Week. Old yearbooks will be on display throughout the week, and previous yearbook photographs will be on sale.

In addition, a display showing yearbook planning and production will be set up for public viewing.

Yearbook journalism is multifaceted, basic education, with the end result being a published volume, a one-of-a-kind history and memory book.

Not many learning experiences in school can match the accomplishments of a yearbook staff. Along with family photo albums, diplomas, and birth certificates, a yearbook takes its place as one of the important historical accounts of a person's life.

In several areas, the yearbook is the only written, and bound history. And, since each volume builds upon the last one, it is a continuing history series.

Yearbook journalism, whether it's a formal, credit-giving class, or informal, after-school activity, teaches students many valuable skills and provides career-oriented training.

Few dispute the acceptance and love of yearbooks—that in itself makes National Yearbook Week worth celebrating.

For the 1988 edition of "Reflections," the Editors-in-chief are Sandy Sarpy and Chris Kern; Class section editors, Cliff Ling and Chris Schmidt; sports, Stanley LeBlanc and Ron Engel; features, Frank Burdette and Joe Sellers; faculty/staff, Kevin Browne and Jean Larroux; honors, Arnie Ouille and Matt Danko; index, Mario Alessi; dorm life, Richard Tugwell; and layout designer and reporter, Gino Ascani.

JILL JACKSON'S HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD: I just plain didn't like Tough Guys Don't Dance. Writer-director Norman Mailer calls it a "film noir." I don't know what to call it, and I'm grateful not to be a reviewer because I truthfully wouldn't know what to say. Go see for yourself, but don't say I didn't warn you. By the way, Ryan O'Neal stars along with Lawrence Tierney as his father and Isabella Rossellini as one of his girlfriends.

I didn't like The Big Easy much better, but that's because I'm prejudiced. It's about corruption in the New Orleans Police Force, drug dealing, shooting, killing and the darker side of New Orleans. It irks me that no one has ever made a film about the beauties of the old city, the gracious living, stately old homes, glorious parks and traditions. It's where I was born and raised, and it isn't all vice, corruption and the seamy side of the French Quarter.

BITS 'N' PIECES: The Big Easy wasn't all bad. Ellen Barkin is an interesting actress. Not your conventional type beauty, but vervee sexee. As of course is Dennis Quaid as a slightly corrupt Cajun cop. Some of the sex scenes between Barkin and Quaid really sizzle... Debbie Reynolds still can't believe she kept up with Donald O'Connor and Gene Kelly in the Singin' in the Rain dance numbers. "I had never danced those type steps before," she says... Gail Sheehy dissects Gary Hart in a no-holds-barred-in-depth piece in the September issue of Vanity Fair magazine... John Wayne's Newport Beach manse can be had for $8.5 million, and Elizabeth Taylor's Puerto Vallarta Casa is yours for a mere one million, a steal on today's market... In Hollywood for a Murder, She Wrote episode, Claire Trevor managed to see all her old friends between takes for those under 30, Trevor won an Oscar for her role in Key Largo... That romance between Demi Moore and Emilio Estevez is no more (pardon the pun).

WORD WISE

Q: I heard a crazy tale about the origin of the word sirloin. What's the real story behind my favorite steak? — B.F., Buffalo, NY

A: A widely accepted myth about the word sirloin is that some medieval or renaissance lord was served an exceptionally good piece of meat. He was so impressed by the size and succulence that he pulled out his sword, touched his steak, and proclaimed, "I dub thee Sir Loin."

Compared to this colorful and romanticized explanation, the real origin of the word is quite plain and means simply "above the loins." The fact of the matter is that the original French spelling was surloin, and sur means "above." As everyone knows, sirloin steak comes from the part of the hind-quarter just above the round.

CEHS to host ACT, SAT workshop

Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian will host ACT and SAT workshops for high school juniors and seniors who are interested in orienting themselves and preparing for the college entrance tests.

There is no charge for this service. The ACT workshop is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 10 in the Fine Arts Building, Jeff Davis College Campus, Room D-110 from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

The SAT workshop is scheduled for Saturday, Oct. 17, Building G, Room G-121, Jeff Davis Campus from 8:30 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Practice tests in English, math, social science and natural science will be taken and then scored.

This will give the students immediate feedback on their performance as well as point out their strengths and weaknesses in the respective academic areas, said CEHS counselor, Mrs. Jo Mannino-Stajdel.

Mrs. Mannino-Stajdel said that students who participate in ACT and SAT workshops will be better prepared for the actual testing procedure and can improve their scores by aggressively taking the practice tests repeatedly.

In the workshops, test taking strategies will be discussed and tips on relaxation and concentration will also be emphasized, said Mrs. Mannino-Stajdel.

After the workshops, the students' answer sheets will be sent to their respective high school counselors. This will allow the counselors and students to work together to strengthen their weak areas and to provide assistance up to the testing day.

Both the ACT and SAT workshops are open to any interested juniors and seniors in Hancock, Harrison and Jackson counties.

Students may register through their high school counselor or by calling Coast Episcopal High School at 452-9442. Registration deadline is Thursday, Oct. 8.

Mississippi's largest Bluegrass Music Festival opens Oct. 8 at Lonesome Pines Bluegrass Park near Laurel, with Bluegrass fans from across the nation expected to converge for the event.

The show will begin at 7 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 8 and continue through Oct. 10, with top name Bluegrass entertainers scheduled to appear over the weekend.

"We've got some of the best coming to Lonesome Pines for this our 3th October festival," says Mama Reece Owens, owner of the bluegrass park and promoter of the event.

"Our October show is always the largest and the weather is usually so much cooler than in June."

Over 200 campers are expected at the park which features hook-ups and bath facilities for those who want to spend the weekend.

"We are really expecting the first folks the week before, as we will be having jam sessions all week, with the stage show beginning on Thursday. There'll be as much music around the park, or more, than on the stage."

Featured groups will include Jim & Jesse & the Virginia Boys; Union Station from Illinois; Signal Mountain of Oklahoma; Southland and Don Wiley, both of Louisiana; and a host of Mississippi bands.

"We will also be having our musician's workshops on Saturday again. Beginning at 10:30 a.m., the professional musicians will be on hand to talk and play with those interested. We will be rotating the sessions so that people may be able to make parts of all of them. This was a big hit last year and we wanted to do it again."

The festival has been compared to a big family reunion as people come from all over the country to camp and be with their Bluegrass friends.

"We have folks from as many as ten states, and sometimes more. Many of the retired couples spend the week and so we planned some things for the first of the week.

Bluegrass folks like to eat and 'pick,'" added Owens with a chuckle.

The festival began in 1980 and is now credited with bringing hundreds of out-of-towners to the Laurel area.

"Several local businesses gear up for the event because they know extra business is coming. After all, these folks have to have groceries, gasoline and other things and the ladies like to shop in area stores."

Mrs. Owens says it is a real boost to the local economy and brings people to Laurel that otherwise might never stop in the town.

"We have a good clean, family show that families can come to and not worry about their kids."

Anyone wanting information, may call Mama Reece Owens at 601-729-2891. Information flyers are available as is information about crafts, tables, camping and other details on the festival. The park is located west of Laurel just off Highway 28.

Coyotes in Mississippi don't threaten humans

By Patti Drapala
Mississippi Cooperative
Extension Service

Although the number of coyotes are increasing in Mississippi, human lives won't be threatened by their presence.

The same cannot be said for wild game, livestock, row crops and a wandering family pet.

"It's rare that coyotes will attack humans," said Dr. Ed Jones, a wildlife specialist with the Mississippi Cooperative Extension Service. "They're scared and wary of people."

Twenty years ago, coyotes were rare in the state. In 1984, about 28,000 coyotes were trapped and killed. About 36,000 have been killed this year.

coyotes learned to adapt to eastern terrain and now they are comfortable in the woodlands and pastures of the East.

"Coyotes are not as big a problem in some eastern states as they are in Mississippi," Jones said. "There are more coyotes today in the United States, and in Mississippi, than there ever were before."

Considered to be a carnivore, coyotes feed on small mammals, such as mice, rats and rabbits. They will feast on turkeys, quail and deer, although the extent of their wild game eating habits is not known in Mississippi.

When they can't find meat, coyotes willingly turn to other food sources, particularly Mississippi watermelons. Blessed with sharp livestock herds or decimating the wild game population in the state. They aren't killing family pets in record numbers, either.

"Coyotes probably aren't doing as much damage as people think they are," Jones said. "If a producer has coyote problems in his livestock operation, it's probably only one or two animals causing the problem."

Producers with coyote problems have only one method of control: trapping with harnes leghold traps and killing the animal when captured.

Jones said poisoning is not an option because of the risk it poses to other wildlife and domestic animals.

COYOTES don't attack people but their numbers are increasing in the state where they may annoy livestock, crop producers and game hunters.

Coyotes are here to stay, much to the dismay of livestock producers and game hunters. They will attack a calf or grab a chicken, if given a chance, and they will eat almost any kind of vegetable.

"There's not much a coyote won't go after," Jones said. "They'll eat just about anything."

Once a native of the western plains, coyotes moved east as ranching and populations expanded in the western United States. They were also brought east for dog training by hunters.

Highly intelligent animals, teeth, coyotes crack open melon rinds and scoop out the fruit with their paws.

"They can destroy an entire watermelon patch in an evening," Jones said.

Coyotes will also attack cats, dogs and other domestic pets. Cats usually fare better against the threat of coyote attack because they leave when they sense danger.

Dogs tend to stay and defend their territory, opening themselves up to attack by coyotes.

Despite their presence and eating habits, coyotes are not wiping out

Funds awarded for scientific computing at Mississippi State

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Mississippi State University has received a $5.5 million check from the U.S. Department of Defense to construct a building and purchase equipment for a new research Center for Advanced Scientific Computing which will conduct key research for the U.S. Air Force.

Senator John Stennis said the payment will allow the University to move ahead with plans to build the center at the Mississippi Research and Technology Park at Starkville to conduct research in microelectronics and computational fluid dynamics. Stennis and the Department of Defense announced establishment of the center at the University last month.

"This is an extremely important project for the Air Force and for Mississippi State University," Stennis said. "Additionally, there is a tremendous potential for related development. This center will greatly enhance our research capability and our reputation, which is already good but is becoming more widely recognized in this field and in related fields of high technology."

Stennis said the research is expected to benefit several agencies of the Department of Defense but will be administered by the Air Force Office of Scientific Research.

"Everybody involved wants to get this center established and operational as soon as possible."

If Detroit made engines which didn't have to idle, we could put a huge dent in our national fuel consumption, cut down on air pollution, and reduce engine wear dramatically. Unfortunately, at this stage of automotive technology, we don't have such an animal, but we can do the next best thing by remembering this rule: Under 30 seconds, let it idle; over 30 seconds, turn it off. Not only will this practice prove beneficial to your mileage rating, but it will also reduce engine deposit build-up and wear directly related to prolonged engine idling.

CURRIER & IVES

Authentic Ironstone Collection

The Heritage Mint Limited proudly presents a unique opportunity for collector and homemaker alike, to own and cherish an authentic set of dinnerware inspired from the works of Currier & Ives, famous American lithographers of the 19th century. Before cameras and movies, Currier and Ives recorded the growth of our Republic in original, hand etched lithographs, pictorial panoramas that made it possible for Americans to "see" the events and locales of our developing country.

Heritage Mint Limited commissioned Jeffery Eardley, noted English master engraver to produce four famous Currier & Ives countryside scenes on original copper engravings to be directly imprinted onto ceramic plates, cups, bowls, mugs and complete pieces to create our authentic and original set of Currier & Ives dinnerware. They are destined to become tomorrow's prized antiques. The scenes, "Early Winter", "Harvest", "Autumn in New England-Cider Making" and "The Mill Dam at Sleepy Hollow" capture the serenity, the romanticism and the tranquility of farm scenes and the activities of Americans at work and play in the 1800's. Meticulous in detail, each piece can be proudly displayed or set as a complete Currier & Ives table service.

WIN CHRISTMAS CASH THE EASY WAY...PLAY JITNEY'S ALL NEW SERIES OF

RULES AND HOW TO PLAY:

1. No purchase necessary to participate. Receive a free game ticket and collector card on request at the checkout counter or store office. Limit one ticket per adult (18 years or older) per store visit per day.
2. TO PLAY: Simply punch out the perforated portion of the game ticket to reveal four markers. Each marker corresponds to an appropriate square on the collector card. For example, if a marker is a 348 in the $5,000 game, insert that marker in the correct square on the collector card. Free squares do not require a marker. Free squares are not transferable.
3. TO WIN: $5,000, $1,000 and $500 cash games play just like regular bingo, complete a row down, across or diagonally.
4. TO CLAIM A PRIZE: All markers which are not part of the winning row should be removed and transferred to a new collector card. Customer must submit and sign the collector card and initial the front of each marker in the winning row in the presence of an authorized store representative who will arrange for verification. Instant Winners of $250, $5, $2, and $1 can be verified and paid at the store upon verification. Potential winners of $5,000, $1,000 and $500 cash games must submit prize claim materials to sponsor for verification. Once the submitted prize claim has been verified by sponsor, the prize will be awarded. All game materials submitted for verification become the property of the game sponsor and cannot be returned. All tax liability on prizes is the responsibility of the prizewinner.
5. All game materials will be rejected and judged VOID if not obtained from, and

6. verified by authorized personnel OR if any part of any game piece is illegible, altered, mutilated, defaced, tampered with, forged, contains printing or other errors, or is irregular in any way. Any attempt to defraud by so large game materials in any way will be prosecuted to the fullest extent of the law. Game materials VOID where taxed or prohibited by law.
7. Only game materials with Series J111 valid for this game.

8. Employees of participating stores (and their I.R.S. listed dependents), the sponsor, its subsidiaries' game supplier and its advertising agency are not eligible to win any prizes.
